Chance for Science Conference 2022

Conference for academics affected by the war in Ukraine

Host: Chance for Science, an initiative by a professor of Leipzig University

Are you a student, academic or scholar affected by the war in Ukraine and are you looking for an opportunity to continue your study, research project or scientific work? Do you want to share your research data and scientific expertise and build up a network within your discipline? Do you want to connect with other students, academics and scholars and find out more about research funding opportunities here in Germany? Sign up to speak and participate in the Chance for Science Conference 2022!

When?

September 8-9, 2022

Where?

Online

Who?

Students, academics and scholars from all disciplines that are interested in presenting their research or knowledge. You can participate from wherever you are – if a stable internet connection cannot be ensured, we will try to provide an alternative presentation mode.

What?

Scientific work presented may include, e.g., data, topics and sections from research papers, doctoral or master's dissertations or current research projects. Speakers will present themselves as well as their research, knowledge and academic expertise in short sessions of 10 minutes sorted by academic field. Furthermore, you will be able to directly get in touch with other participants and speakers after the presentations and hear about funding opportunities for students, researchers and scientists in Germany.

How?

To participate, please register on our website conference.chance-for-science.de and submit a short CV, an abstract of your work and your presentation by August 7, 2022. If you cannot upload your presentation yet, please send it to us as soon as possible under conference@chance-for-science.de. You will receive information if we can accept your presentation as soon as possible, latest by August 22, 2022.

We are looking forward to welcoming you at the Chance for Science Conference 2022!

Attention: The conference will be held in English, if you might contribute in German, please contact us.